A great circle is defined as any circle drawn on a globe (or another sphere) with a center that includes the center of the globe. Thus, a great circle divides the globe into two equal halves. Since they must follow the circumference of the Earth to divide it, great circles are about 40,000 kilometers (24,854 miles) in length along meridians.

A great circle, also known as an orthodrome, of a sphere is the intersection of the sphere and a plane that passes through the center point of the sphere. A great circle is the largest circle that can be drawn on any given sphere. Any diameter of any great circle coincides with a diameter of the sphere, and therefore all great circles have the same center and circumference as each other.

An intercepted arc is created when segments (chords, secants, etc..) intersect a part of the circle. These segments in effect 'intercept' parts of the circle. The picture below shows examples of intercepted arcs. Note: The examples below use chords to create the intercepted arc. However, tangents, secants can also create intercepted arcs.

Numbering only six, the Null-class Advanced Recon Commandos were the first clones of Jango Fett created by the Kaminoan cloners, and the prototypes for the Grand Army of the Republic. They were deemed a failure by the Kaminoans and were not put into mass-production, but were saved from termination by Mandalorian mercenary Kal Skirata who later adopted all of them. All of the Nulls were named ...
