In life, it was said that the Buddha forewent Nirvana in order to teach others the keys to transcendence. In death, the story goes that a follower accidentally poisoned Buddha. As he was dying, he comforted this follower by assuring him that the meal he had just eaten was one of his two most blessed meals: the first meal was the one he had to break his fast under the bodhi tree, and this ...

Ego death is a "complete loss of subjective self-identity". The term is used in various intertwined contexts, with related meanings. In Jungian psychology, the synonymous term psychic death is used, which refers to a fundamental transformation of the psyche. In death and rebirth mythology, ego death is a phase of self-surrender and transition, as described by Joseph Campbell in his research on ...

Calling is self-transcendence still seems to emphasize a self that's trying to transcend. In that case it sounds like the self might somehow remain after the transcending. Of course just saying transcendence doesn't say what it is that's being transcended. This raises deep metaphysical issues about ego transcendence. In general in Advaita Vedanta and similar thought there is only unity ...

I'm actually shocked by how much I liked this book. This book is not an in depth study of anything, so don't take it as such. Rather, it's a survey of various aspects of Jesus' message, both in his actions and words, and how very far the Western church has fallen from that, even so far as to be unrecognizable and Anti-Christ.

In religion, transcendence is the aspect of a deity's nature and power that is wholly independent of the material universe, beyond all known physical laws. This is contrasted with immanence, where a god is said to be fully present in the physical world and thus accessible to creatures in various ways. In religious experience, transcendence is a state of being that has overcome the limitations of ...

In this passage about prayer from Ronald Rolheiser's book, Sacred Fire, the words seem to articulate unconscious thoughts swirling in the back regions of my brain. It's from a section of the book about prayer in which Fr. Rolheiser poses a question we all face from time to time. He writes: "We all have our moments of chaos and crisis. Loss, death, sickness, disappointment, hurt, loneliness ...
